

ENVIRONMENT

1. The circumstances, objects, or conditions by which one is surrounded
2. The aggregate of social and cultural conditions that influence the life of an individual or community

A child's environment determines the attitudes that shape his character.

A child's character produces the attitudes that will shape his environment.

We must strive to create environments that shape good character.

Some environments are uncontrollable - We must seek the help of God, who controls all.

God alone can best shape the tender hearts of children. - He alone knows the heart.

By instilling the fear of God in children, we build a mold that cannot be easily broken, in spite of circumstances.

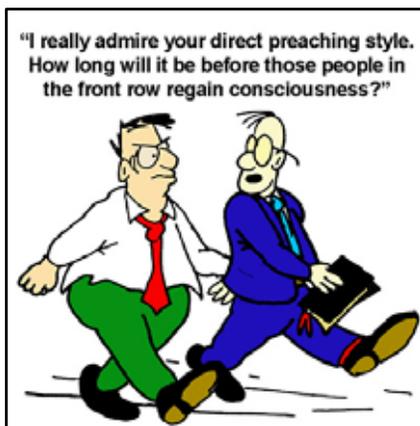

We must show some children an alternative to the depraved environment that surrounds them. - They must be encouraged, and instructed how to rise above it.

- As a child, our environment manages us.
- As we mature, we begin to manage our environment.
- As adults, our attitude in a given environment reflects our level of maturity.

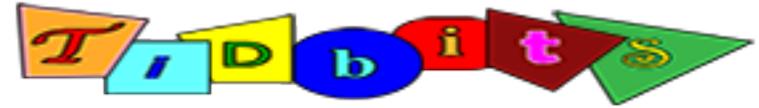

"No change of circumstances can repair a defect of character."
Emerson

We teach children from diverse environments, so we need to provide a stable Godly environment

"Train up a child in the way he should go: and when he is old, he will not depart from it."
Prov. 22:6

"I really admire your direct preaching style. How long will it be before those people in the front row regain consciousness?"

ENVIRONMENT

1. The circumstances, objects, or conditions by which one is surrounded
2. The aggregate of social and cultural conditions that influence the life of an individual or community

A child's environment determines the attitudes that shape his character.

A child's character produces the attitudes that will shape his environment.

We must strive to create environments that shape good character.

Some environments are uncontrollable - We must seek the help of God, who controls all.

God alone can best shape the tender hearts of children. - He alone knows the heart.

By instilling the fear of God in children, we build a mold that cannot be easily broken, in spite of circumstances.

We must show some children an alternative to the depraved environment that surrounds them. - They must be encouraged, and instructed how to rise above it.

- As a child, our environment manages us.
- As we mature, we begin to manage our environment.
- As adults, our attitude in a given environment reflects our level of maturity.

"No change of circumstances can repair a defect of character."
Emerson

We teach children from diverse environments, so we need to provide a stable Godly environment

"Train up a child in the way he should go: and when he is old, he will not depart from it."
Prov. 22:6

"I really admire your direct preaching style. How long will it be before those people in the front row regain consciousness?"